Daugherty Prosecutor Is Indicted for Re- ceiving Money

SPEAKS TO SENATE

Senator Declares Charges Part of Conspiracy to Make Him Cease Attacks on Justice Department

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Apr. 9.—Rising to the question of personal privilege Senator Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, denounced on Senate floor today the indictment returned against him yesterday by the grand jury in his home state. He sketched his career down to his entrance into public life in Butte, Montana, where he said he incurred the ill will of one of the largest financial interests in the state by voting for Senator Walsh, his present colleague. As district attorney he prosecuted prominent politicians and cited certain public officials for jury tampering. One of these officials, Wheeler said, "became associated with a large copper company and since has been active in opposing me. As a result I find myself indicted." He said the foreman of the grand jury was his bitterest political enemy. He declared the indictment was "part of one of the most diabolical conspiracies ever consummated in the United States," and named Anaconda Copper company as responsible for some of his troubles, but he said that really the department of justice at Washington "absolutely and unqualifiedly framed" him in order to stop the investigation of the department of justice and former Attorney General Daugherty.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Apr. 9.—United States Senator B. K. Wheeler, prosecutor of the senate Daugherty investigating committee, was indicted here yesterday by a federal grand jury on a charge of unlawfully receiving money as a bribe for influencing the issuance of oil and gas prospecting permits by the secretary of interior and commissioner of the general land office.

With Senator Wheeler were indicted Gordon Campbell, oil geologist and operator, and L. C. Stevenson, oil promoter and principal owner of an oil refinery. Campbell and Stevenson were the discoverers of the Sunburst Kevin oil fields in Montana. Other oil men of lesser prominence also were indicted on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The grand jury charges that on three occasions Senator Wheeler accepted money improperly after having been elected United States senator before qualifying for office.

HOTEL RATE FOR G. O. P. MEET GOOD

To Be About Half Price Usual at Party Conventions, Cleve- land Man Says

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Apr. 8.—Delegates who room together at the Republican national convention here in June will pay half what delegates have paid at previous conventions, according to George B. Harris, chairman of the hotel committee of the local arrangements committee. On the other hand, the individual who holds space that could be occupied by four must pay the rate of four. The hotel keepers have agreed to charge the regular published rate for two persons in a room plus a rate for each additional person which the room can accommodate.

Three out of the four downtown hotels to which most of the delegations and campaign or state headquarters have been assigned, will charge a flat rate of three dollars for each additional occupant. The fourth hotel announces that a room for which the regular rate is five dollars for two persons will accommodate a third person at the additional rate of five dollars, making the room rate ten dollars. A six-dollar double room can receive two additional persons at three dollars each, with the room rate at twelve dollars. A seven-dollar double room will accommodate two more at three dollars and fifty cents each, with the room rate $14, the maximum.

These rates the management represents to be considerably lower than rates charged at hotels of the same grade at conventions in recent years. Mr. Harris says delegates rooming together at one convention paid ten dollars apiece.

Down town hotels are within five or ten minutes' walk of the convention hall. The most remote outlying hotels are 25 minutes ride, or 15 minutes by motor.

To facilitate the accommodation of visitors, the hotel committee is conducting a housing bureau to which the hotels refer requests for rooms they are unable to fill. The committee then seeks to find satisfactory quarters.

A six-day contract for delegates and a ten-day contract for campaign headquarters are offered by the hotels. Contracts for delegates date from June 8, Sunday, two days preceding the convention.

NO FEATURES TODAY FOR BUY IN MIDDLESBORO

Program At Manning Yesterday After- noon Enjoyable

WOMEN ATTEND

City Commissioner Gives Details of Civil Management—Miss Edwards Talks On Thrift

The Buy in Middlesboro campaign showed few specialties today. With the exception of several interesting new window displays, there were no features today and the out-of-town people brought here by advertising of this week had to content themselves with seeking out bargains in the local stores and with walking the streets.

A brief but splendid program was held at the Manning theatre yesterday afternoon officially beginning the "Buy in Middlesboro" campaign. A fairly large crowd was present, the audience being mainly composed of women. Judge T. G. Anderson and T. R. Hill and John Chesney, billed as speakers for the meeting were unable to be present.

Charles E. Cooke, commissioner of public safety and public finance, told of how the three city officials are trying to manage the city in the interest of the citizens and taxpayers. "Every penny of the money coming into the city treasurer is honestly spent," he declared. "And simplified statements are published monthly showing where the money has gone."

He told of the efforts being made to improve the fire department which, he hopes, will result in a reduction in fire insurance rates. Home stations may be established in the distant parts of town and volunteer fire departments may be raised, he said.

Coming more to the point on the "Buy in Middlesboro" campaign subject, he stated that when he was postmaster he noticed that large sums of money were sent out of town and that comparatively small amounts were received.

Some of the local people buying from mail order houses volunteered information as to why they did not patronize local establishments. Some declared they had looked all over town and could not find what they wanted here, others stated that local prices were too high.

"If you will give local merchants a larger volume of business, they will be able to carry larger stocks and sell at lower prices," the speaker declared. "Our local merchants are paying taxes and helping support our town and the distant mail order houses are not doing these things. Help the merchants because they are helping you."

"Stay Single," a two-reel picture comedy, furnished entertainment between the two speeches of the program and an interesting address on "Thrift."

She began by speaking of synonyms in the English language. Coming more to the point, she exhibited a huge placard bearing the words, industry, economy, prudence and frugality. "One text-book states that all these are synonyms," she explained and they all are necessary to make up the big word on the other side. "Saying this, she turned over to the card and exhibited a big word, "Thrifty." The placard stated that the difference in the synonyms is that industry earns, economy manages, prudence plans and frugality saves.

"The head of the Sears Roebuck company, asked for a definition of thrift, replied: 'I don't know what definition the dictionary gives but I would say that it means spending a little less than you earn.'" She stated, She told of how women could save by taking advantage of bargains and of how children should be taught from early youth to save. She ended her speech by saying: "If you don't live within your income some time you will live without it."

QUIET AT STRAIGHT CREEK MINES TODAY AFTER TURMOIL FOLLOWING TROOPS' ARRIVAL

PROTEST STOPPING WORK ON VA. ROAD

Lee County Citizens in Richmond To- day Urge Completion Road to Jonesville

A number of Lee county citizens have gone to Richmond, Va., today to protest the state order withdrawing construction troops from the road between Stone Hill and Jonesville. This stretch of about fifteen miles is the only bad piece of road connecting this section up with the entire east.

Virginia convicts had been at work on this Lee county road for about three years and have it all done but two miles of grading and ten miles of surfacing. The order to park the machinery and convicts and move it once to another section of the state is very disconcerting.

Lee county voted the money for the road about six years ago. With state and federal aid they had expected to have it completed in the near future. Now, however, the state says all funds have been exhausted and the county will have to raise more before the link can be completed.

SEVERAL ADDED TO CHURCH LAST NIGHT

Many Hear Splendid Sermon on "Re- pentance"—Topic Tonight Is "Royal Visitors"

A number of persons were added to the church last night at the close of the revival service at the First Baptist Church. The house was crowded and the sermon and musical program were splendid.

The music was in charge of the song leader, E. L. Woolfslage and a quartet and solo number augmented the choir and congregation singing.

The sermon subject last night was "Repentance" and Dr. Stephens discussed the topic in detail, the need of repentance, its importance, its place and methods. He spoke particularly of the difference between legal and gospel repentance, saying that the first are sorry merely because they fear consequences. He spoke disparagingly of death-bed repentance saying that only three cases out of 2,000 in a test of such repentances where the person had recovered showed the "repenter" continue as a Christian.

The day services at these meetings are more largely attended than any like services in the history of the church. Many say both preacher and singer have been their best in these services.

The sermon subject for tonight is "Royal Visitors," one of the strongest which Dr. Stephens will preach. The subject in the morning is "Life's Sufficient Ballast."

Women and Children Flee From Shooting to Pineville

NO CASUALTIES

Soldiers Seek to Extend Patrol Mines Can Continue Work Unbothered by Snipers

With the exception of some shots from places of concealment in the woods after daylight this morning, everything has been quiet in the camps of the Liberty Coal and Coke company at Straight Creek. Some of the men have left their work, however, and a number of families have made a hurried exodus from the scene of warfare between state troops and snipers in the hills.

No casualties have resulted among the military forces though it is reported that two men of the opposing side have been wounded. The report came from the office of the coal company from officials who stated that they had no means of definitely knowing what happened on the other side.

State troops immediately replied to the firing this morning, sweeping the mountain side with a heavy barrage from their machine guns. Whether or not any of the men were hit is not known but further sniping from their side was stopped for the day.

Max Baker, vice-president of the Liberty Coal and Coke company, stated this afternoon that they had not advised families of the camp to flee but that many of them had gone because they feared an attack from the union sympathizers which caused them a night of terror on the preceding evening.

A troop of cavalry, without horses, has arrived from London at the camp to reinforce the state troops. Additional guards have been placed around the mines and camps and every precaution is being taken to prevent a recurrence of the warfare.

The camp has, to a degree, become accustomed to the firing at night and unless it increases in intensity there is not likely to be a material slackening of mining operations. While many of the men have left their jobs, the company is using every effort to procure workers for their places.

Heavy rains last night extinguished the fire which presumably was started by the snipers in the hills. Early today the women and children who had fled from their homes and taken refuge in the court house had made no move to return home.

The road from the camp yesterday presented an appearance similar to that in war times when families driven by the Germans sought shelter in territory removed from the scene of battle. Women carrying babies and holding the hand of small children, passed along the Straight Creek road en route to Pineville today after a night of terror during which bullets whirled around their homes which caused the less hardy members of the camp to seek the quiet of Pineville. During the shooting before daylight yesterday women and children sought shelter behind heavy furniture and some went under their floors. They did not care to go through another sleepless night and gathered their belongings together and departed.

Company officials denied a report here that orders were issued yesterday for all women and children to leave the camp. On the other hand, officials said that the women apparently were leaving on orders from their husbands and fathers.

Reports were current here yesterday that the Liberty Coal and Coke company mine will be the scene of a final struggle for supremacy between the union and non-union forces. The company sponsored under union conditions for some time, but recently began on a non-union basis. Heads of the company claim that they will continue to operate on a non-union basis, threatening the union here contains the idea that the union loses its fight in the Liberty operation which is one of the most important in this section.

"YOU'VE GOT TO HAVE A PLOW!"

OLIVER PLOW LYNCHBURG PLOW
(Made after the Original Oliver)

WE SELL BOTH THESE FAMOUS MAKES

The wagon train divides in the desert. One branch bearing of gold in California rushes southwest across the mountains; the main train continues northwestward to Oregon.

At this dramatic point in the film version of Emerson Hough's great story "The Covered Wagon," the old leader of the Oregon train gazes fondly upon his new plow which he hopes soon to sink into the Oregon soil. He is not distracted by thoughts of California gold. "The pick and shovel never built up a country," he says. "You have got to have a plow."

Since the days of pioneers of "The Covered Wagon" Oliver and Lynchburg plows have been building up this country. Sturdy and practical, three generations of American farmers have depended on them to prepare the land. As new methods in construction and improved methods of agriculture were discovered, makers quickly put them to the test and passed on to users of these plows the most up to date implements.

You have got to have a plow. This is just as true today as in the days when Emerson Hough wrote in "The Covered Wagon." Modern plows and tillage tools assure their users today largest possible yields as did their predecessors of an earlier day.

AND SERVICE STATION FOR MIDDLESBORO

The evolution from the days of a half century ago when trans-continental overland travel was made in the old prairie schooner, to the present day when swarms of motorists dot the highways from coast to coast traveling on good roads, has been no less remarkable than the evolution of the Studebaker. In the days when our forefathers braved the rigors of icy winters and the death-like heat of the desert, the depredations of bands of outlaws and ambushes of terrorizing Indians, the wagon trains contained many a Studebaker vehicle whose sturdy construction, durability and dependability made a reputation for Studebaker which has endured for four generations.

Just the same as the Studebaker wagon was noted for these sterling qualities, the mantle of good will has fallen on the Studebaker automobile today, plus the luxury and conveniences afforded by this "covered wagon" of the present generation. There is no finer conveyance for cross country travel than the Studebaker sedan.

A Thought

MIDDLESBORO AND
THE RURAL SECTIONS

The fact that only a comparatively few people from Virginia and Tennessee have come to town to take advantage of the Buy In Middlesboro Week bargains indicates that there is not yet close enough connection between Middlesboro and the rural sections of the vicinity. We have a long way yet to go to sell these people on Mid-dlesboro, though we have, indeed, come a long way.

Perhaps the principal reason for this is that our campaigns are spasmodic and are not kept up the year around.
Once or twice a year our merchants take time off to urge these people to Middlesboro and the rest of the time they rely on this former work. To keep these people interested all of the time we must keep Middlesboro stores and institutions before them all of the time and this would be a real advertising feature.

These are the sections with which we are most closely connected and our business can not be at its best until our business and theirs are much more closely cemented. They are the producers of raw goods and purchasers of manufactured goods from our stores.
We are consumers of their raw material and distributors of the manufactured goods which they are seeking.

They help us and we help them and neither of us can really prosper without the other. Let us realize this and strive to our utmost, not two weeks, fifty-two weeks a year, to bring these sections together.

PEOPLE WANT
MELLON TAX BILL

The obstructionists in Congress made two discoveries this week, the first being that the so called propaganda in favor of the Mellon tax bill was not propaganda at all but an expression on the part of the people who are with President Coolidge in wanting congress to get down to work and pass a tax measure that will reduce taxes; the second was that the plan to oust Secretary Mellon from the cabinet was loaded with dynamite.

In regard to the first discovery the lawmakers have been receiving word from "the folks back home" that they stood behind the president in his demand for action, it was propaganda but the propaganda was from Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer who had become tired of petty politics as played by the minority for the past four months. If a few more thousand citizens, irrespective of what their political faith may be, send on letters the chances are that they will get a tax reduction measure passed this session and one that will carry, with it, Coolidge's demand for 25 per cent reduction for the 1923 taxes, just a few more letters will do it.

Senator Robinson, Arkansas, minority leader, has been the handwriting on the wall and disavowed any part in his democratic colleagues plan to harpoon Mellon. It does not matter whether one likes the sec-tary of the treasury or not every one will have to acknowledge that under his skillful guidance the great national debt has been reduced about $4,000,000,000 and that is the thing that the people want.

If the minority are sincere in their efforts to aid the people of the nation they will get squarely back of the president and put his measures through. President Coolidge is stronger today than he was a month ago for the voters realize he has been fighting their battle and fighting against heavy odds. His appointment of Harlan F. Stone, dean of Columbia University is another evidence of the president's firm desire to act for the best interest of the people instead of playing politics by selecting some man who might carry some votes with him. Those in Washington are more than even impressed with the similarity between Coolidge and Lincoln's method of working, namely, direct and honest action for the benefit of the nation as a whole.

JEFFERSON
WEEK

Speaking of anniversaries, next Sunday is the anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson and the present week has been set aside for national observance as Jefferson Week. Few men have contributed more to the nation than Thomas Jefferson and few have contributed more to the world's thought upon the principles of freedom, the rights of man and the policies of government. Lawyers, philosopher, political genius, country gentlemen, he was the most democratic of the men who have occupied the office of President of the United States, not only in his preachings but in practice.

Thomas Jefferson in the prime of life, lately having wed, erected the magnificent Monticello upon a hilltop near Charlottesville, Va. Later, in his declining years, he returned there and said once, "All my hopes end where I hope my days will end, at Monticello."

Monticello is a wonderful and fascinating place from an architectural standpoint. But it is not from this viewpoint that it is principally viewed, but as a shrine, where because of those who "made themselves at home" new rooms had to be annexed and where many accepted of Jefferson's hospitality and drank of his wisdom.

The effort now is to revive Monticello as a national shrine and this should, by all means, be done.

There is no place like home except a battlefield—during spring cleaning.

You can increase the population of any town by having no bathing suit censors.

There are 40,000 muscles in an elephant's trunk, and when you are mission on Evangelism of Fed-

WEDNESDAY
The Investment of Life

Read Mt. 20:20-34. Text: 20:28.
The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister.

"Jesus' intense passion for working with the will of God in leading men forward must have continued with unabated force after death. The resurrection of Jesus, then, meant to him the corroboration of the sense of 'Messianic' leadership which had been developed in his soul. This supreme leadership was continued after death."

Meditation: Jesus considered the calling of men to an unselfish life of more value than simply living on himself. He had committed himself unreservedly to the one purpose of investing his all for others.

Personal Question: In what ways am I ministered to by others daily?
Prayer: Almighty God, our Father, we pray that we may realize our inheritance in Christ. May thy spirit cause us to be conscious of the eternal even as we are engaged in our common labor. Let us see the relationship of thy kingdom, and grant us the assurance that we are co-workers with thee, through Christ.

THE OPEN FORUM

Skating in Streets
Editor Daily News:

I wonder if the police department of this city has directed its attention to a practice among Middlesboro children which seems to me a very dangerous one. That is the practice of skating in the middle of the street.

This is particularly noticeable on Bluewood road at noon where the chances which the school children take are positively built raising. They start at the top of the hill, at the Hooneway Inn, and skate down to Twelfth street, gaining momentum all of the time so that they could not possibly stop or get out of the street.
It is a splendid place to skate and the long incline must make an exhilarating track—if only the cars did not have to run on the same track.

As it is the cars have to come to a standstill time and again to avoid hitting these children. If a driver were negligent and did not pay strict heed to where he was going he would certainly strike one of them. And that is just what is going to happen if these children do not quit skating in the street. The parents, teachers or police should do something about it immediately.

ANXIOUS.

We like spring much better than winter because in spring everybody else is lazy, too.

CELLAR CIRCLE

DAILY
POEM

TODAY we find the family in the cellar, hard at work. The brooms and mops are flying fast and hard. And neither dad nor mother, nor the kiddies stop to shirk, except to read a wrinkled postal card.

A monster pile of papers grows, as things get spic and span; and Johnny ties them up as he is told. Then Mary, who is helping, cops a comic sheet to scan—a Sunday funny sheet that's four weeks old.

Now in a darkened corner where the rags have all been put, poor mother picks them over one by one. She shakes the finest pieces so they'll lose their coats of soot. She'll use them till her crazy quilt is done.

And father—well, he's busy sorting bottles on a shelf, deciding which shall go and which shall stay. He keeps the ones with corks in—yes, he's thinking of himself. Of course, he'll give the other ones away.

And so the family labors till the cellar's spic and span. And then, when comes the finish of the day, there'll be a healthy welcome for the rag-collecting man, for he will truck the rubbish all away.

customs, are to be discussed in a series of addresses before the annual convention of the Kentucky Folklore society, which meets Friday morning April 25 in connection with the Kentucky Educational association.

The program follows:

Heritage, W. B. Kinkaid, Lebanon.

tains, Mrs. W. B. Kinkaid, Lebanon.

Town Of Cyclists
SOUTHAMPTON, Eng.—Southampton claims to have more cyclists than any town in proportion to its size. It is estimated that one in every four persons rides a bicycle and thousands of machines can be seen in the streets at the busy hours.

SHATTERED NERVES

Lady Says She Was In a Desperate Condition, But "New In-splendid Health" After Taking Cardui.

Dale, Ind.—"About three years ago," says Mrs. Flora Roberts, of this place, "I had the 'flu', which left me in a desperate condition. I had a bad cough. I went down in weight to little over one hundred pounds. I took different medicines—did everything, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I hurt so badly in the chest at times I would have to go to the door to get my breath.

"I would have the headache and was so weak I felt like I would just have to sink down and stay there.
"My nerves were shattered. I looked for something awful to happen—I would tremble and shake at a noise.

"My mother said, 'Do try Cardui', and my husband insisted till I began its use. I used two bottles of Cardui ... and noted a big improvement in my condition. I kept up the Cardui and weigh 180 pounds. I am now in splendid health—sure am a firm believer in Cardui, for I'm satisfied it did the work."

After a weakening illness a tonic is needed to help regain lost strength.
Many thousands of women have found Cardui exactly what they needed for this purpose. It may be just what you need. Try it. All druggists.

ONE MILLION ACRES OF MEXICAN LAND LEASED BY RISING OIL KING

E. L. Doherty, politician, oil magnate, has told of his early adventures and figure in the Senate oil investigation and how he made his first $1,000,000 in oil in earlier chapters of "How I Made My Millions." This is the eighth chapter.

BY E. L. DOHERTY

Eventually we got the Californian situation well in hand, and began looking around for other fields.

Mexico was the nearest and most attractive, for there had been many stories of untold quantities of oil, some of it building on the very surface of the ground. We went down to check these reports.

For a time we prospected, not on foot, as in the old days, but by comfortable train. We went along the eastern coast to Cardenas, and investigated the oil exudes in that vicinity. Then, accompanied by Mexican guides, we pushed through the dense underbrush of the jungle, finally reaching Huasteca plain, where we came upon a pool of oil.

We went on and found one natural oil well after another in that jungle country back of Tampico.

I immediately obtained leases on about 1,000,000 acres of land in this territory, and came back home to organize a company to exploit the project. It was the most pretentious I had ever undertaken, for roads had to be built, pipe-lines laid, railways constructed, shops and warehouses erected and a myriad of other details arranged, before the mineral wealth of the interior could be brought to the sea for export.

Yet charges have been made that we have instigated revolutions in Mexico—a land where we have sunk millions, where we would be among the principal sufferers in a time of revolt and disaster. Nonsense. Absolute nonsense.

After beginning the development of the Tampico field, we went south and turned our attention to the Tuxpan region, which produces a lighter oil.

MISCELLANEOUS

WANTED:—3 rooms furnished or unfurnished for light housekeeping. Call 151 Cumberland phone, Pineville. 4-9-24.

With this further experience, I became expert at sensing of oil. As a friend once put it: I was developing "the supreme knowledge of being able to see into the ground."

And it is in the checking of this knowledge that I got the greatest joy of my oil developments. I don't have to wait for the report on the financial end of the enterprise to get my "kick" out of it; I get it in formulating the plans and seeing them carried out.

It is a success for me when a project is started to find out if there is oil where I think it is.

For I've come to believe that the calculating of the location of oil becomes as exact a calculation as the solving of a mathematical problem.

And if a man knows his business, and has the time to select his place, there is no reason why he should ever drill a well in a dry hole.

(In his next article Doherty explains his interest in government and why he "played politics.")

REPAIRING LONG DISTANCE PHONE WIRES THIS WEEK

The Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Co. has a large crew of men at work rebuilding their toll lines between Corbin and Cumberland Gap. Several hundred old poles have been removed from the plant and have been replaced by new poles, and in many instances it being necessary to replace with poles much larger in size, due to the telephone growth in this section.

The crew began work at Corbin, and for the last several months has been working its way south through Barbourville and Pineville, it being necessary to practically reconstruct the route in its entirety through the city of Pineville. The crew has now reached Ferndale and within the next few weeks it is expected that the work will be completed as far as Middlesboro. It is planned to replace the iron wire with copper between Middlesboro and Cumberland Gap, which will make a considerable improvement in the toll service to Tennessee points.

When this work is completed it will mean that South Eastern Kentucky will have a strong toll route to Louisville and points North.

THREE FINED FOR CONDUCTING DISORDERLY HOUSE

Paul Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smith, charged with operating a disorderly house over the Deluxe cafe, were convicted by a jury in police court this afternoon and fined $100 each.

by the Commonwealth testified that Two women witnesses introduced know of any disorderliness being conducted there. Two others, however, stated that they had a conversation with one of the defendants who stated that the place was protected by law but warned them that one of the policemen, "the tall one with black mustache" was the "meanest man on the force."

Defendants denied the charges against them, stating that, to their knowledge there had never been any misconduct at the place with the exception of one time when Paul Hill called an officer to make an arrest there for drunkenness.

EXCEPTIONAL RIDING COMFORT

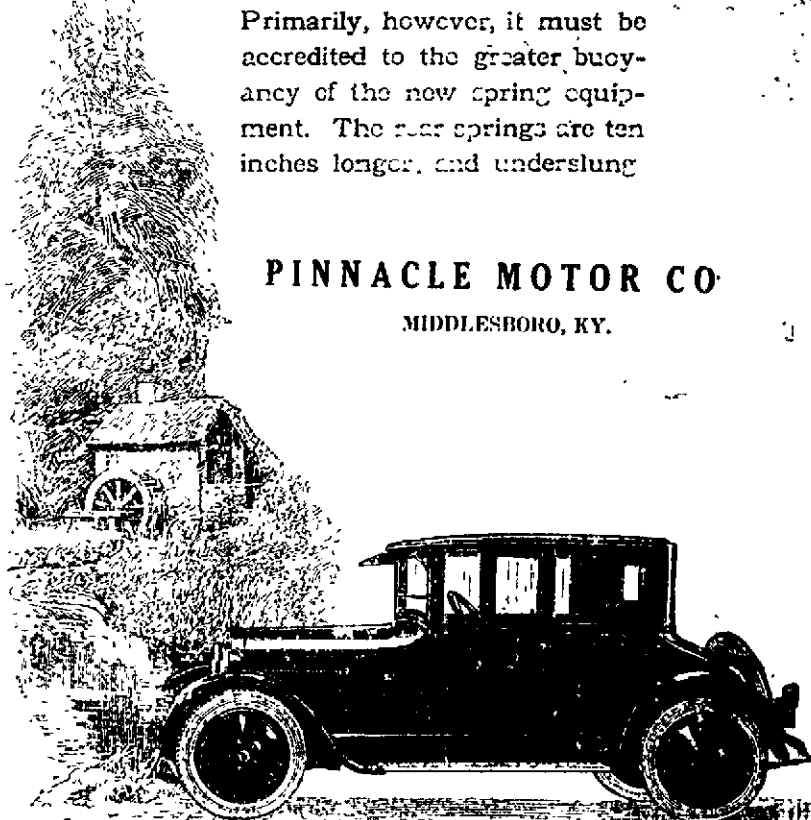

Owners continue to comment on the marked riding comfort of Dodge Brothers' Motor Car.

Increased chassis length, low-swinging body and generous seat depth have much to do with this.
